

KR Utility Model Registration No. 20-0295280

Issued date November 4, 2002

Application No. 20-2002-0015755

Application date May 23, 2002

Title of invention:

Device for cutting glass using laser beam

Abstract

The present invention relates to a device for cutting a glass using a laser beam. The present invention is advantageous in that a laser beam output from a laser source is divided into two beams which are used as a laser beam for scribing and a laser beam for braking, respectively, resulting in reducing the number of laser source in comparison with the prior art.